The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s misadventures and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time, dressed in a brand-new suit, and tells the household about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly announces that he will be skipped school that afternoon and must return to school in the morning. Tom is told he will be whipped for his absence.

Aunt Polly is satisfied, and Tom goes out of the house into the dashing, white-whistling, while wandering the streets of St. Petersburg on his own.

Tom and the new arrival of a “white alley” (a kind of marble) almost agree, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his thoughts.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiterush the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his thoughts.
