Forensis The Architecture Of Public Truth
The novel opens with Aunt Polly searching the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with ink, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper. Aunt Polly tells him that he must be skipped school that afternoon and write seven pages of the history of St. Petersburg, and Tom is bored. Tom and his half-brother Bert set off to St. Petersburg to look for Tom's mother. Tom is told he does not have to write so many pages after all, and Tom gets away with it.

Tom goes out of the house into the street. He soon returns, overjoyed and exultant. He has discovered a secret room and eventually chases the newsmen all the way home.

When he arrives home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of street. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects warmly on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and tells Aunt Polly a tale of excitement, which he has been keeping to himself. He has been skipping school that afternoon and went somewhere he wasn't supposed to be, and he made a bet and won a bet that he could enter the girls' school, but Aunt Polly's half-brother, Joe Harper, is still a new boy there. Tom has sworn the boy to secrecy, but Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom and the new arrival enter the study. Aunt Polly's son, Joe Harper, is not impressed by Tom's story, and he asks Tom to leave, but Tom promises to tell the entire story. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but Tom has sworn the boy to secrecy, and eventually chases the newcomer all the way home.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitenew the fence. Joe Harper by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitening in return for a "white alley," a kind of whistle. Joe almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
A common conventional method for managing stormwater is a stormwater basin. Basins are meant to collect stormwater and slowly release it at a controlled rate so that downstream areas are not flooded or eroded. While effective for flood control, these practices have significant limitations for water quality treatment and for preventing impacts to stream systems.
