The novel opens with Aunt Polly searching the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper to find that his father has arrived. He tells Tom that he will be skipped school that afternoon and must repair to the shed and clear out that his clothes are still as new Tom goes out of the house his father, Mr. Innocent,Oh, and the new arrival is a school officer, Mr. Innocent, who manages a metal and metal, and eventually clears the new, as the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get Jim to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.

After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects cruelly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime and tells Aunt Polly how well he has done at school that afternoon and how wise he has become. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but to her surprise, Tom’s half-brother, Joe, has returned home. He has absconded and is not expected back for some time. Aunt Polly is exasperated. Tom has sworn to his aunt that he would not let himself be whipped.

Tom goes out of the house into the street. He sees a man’s horse and carriage and eventually chases the horsecar all the way home.
