The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects on Tom's misbehavior and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime and tells his aunt about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly is surprised to hear Tom has skipped school that afternoon and met a stranger. His clothes are still wet from the rain, but not Tom's, and Aunt Polly is satisfied.

Tom goes out of the house in a rage and runs down the streets of St. Petersburg. A stranger runs up and offers Tom a drink of whiskey. Tom accepts and eventually chases the stranger all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alby," a kind of mule. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischievous ways and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime with a large black and gold box about his shoulders. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom that he has been skipped school that afternoon and must return to the schoolhouse the next day. Tom's half-brother Sid, Tom's half-brother, determines to stay out of school and eventually makes the wrong move.
