The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with juniper, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects ruefully on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper. He is in a high state of excitement and tells the tale of his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly isSated. Tom has skipped school that afternoon and went to the caves. He has found a box of matches, and the big bull dog is after him, but Tom is safe. Tom’s half-brother, Ben, is safe; he has been out all day, and Tom has warned him to be careful. When Tom goes out of the house, he is dog-tired, but he feels like a king.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom manages to persuade the fence post to paint the fence with white paint. Tom then tells the other boys that whitewashing is fun. Tom uses the fence post to get other boys to work for him, and eventually, the fence is whitewashed.
