The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischievous and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, a little worse for wear, but not a whit for his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly inquires about Tom's doings for the day. Tom claims he was skipped school that afternoon and went swimming in the river. He tells her he didn't want to go to school because he had just finished reading a book about a boy who skipped school all the time.

Aunt Polly is satisfied, and Tom soon finds himself dancing and her what Tom has learned from his book.

Tom goes out of the house into the blackness and the moonlight, whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, he sees the new arrival of a mysterious man, dressed in black and carrying a large bag. Tom sneaks up on the man and eventually chases the new man all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom hangs his head and promises to do it. Aunt Polly then goes to get some cream, leaving Tom alone with his task.

Tom comes home at supper, looking pale and excited. He has been skipping school that afternoon and went downtown to a place where he met a fellow who claims he can sell hula hoops for his mother. She bought one, and Tom saw her and thought he could sell it for ten dollars. He did, and his mother was very angry, but Tom's father, Mr. Jerome, is a kind and easygoing man who does not mind very much. Tom has always been quite a troublemaker, but his mother is very strict, and Tom is afraid of her.

Tom and the new arrival eat dinner together, and Tom tells his mother about his adventures. He has managed to sell several more hula hoops and has been spending the money on small trinkets for himself. His mother is very worried and asks him to stop.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. He passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of muzzle. His mother agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases Tom off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
The theme of DSOM 2008 was "Managing Large-Scale Service Deployment" focusing both on management of overlay networks and on virtualized service infrastructures. The concepts of abstract overlays and virtualization constitute key contributors for efficient large-scale service deployment and testing.
