Medical Terminology A Programmed Systems Approach
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with ink, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, but Aunt Polly won’t let him in. She tells him that he can’t be skipped school that afternoon and must remain in the house. He sullenly goes out into the yard, sits down on the steps, and begins to think about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells him how she had to take care of the house and show that his collar is still worn from a button. Tom’s half-brother, Sid, is not here; he is with his mother, who has been taken to the court house. Tom has sworn the boy to keep his mouth shut about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells him how Tom was punished and eventually chased the newscaper all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly makes Tom put on his overalls and get his broom and brush and go to the front yard. He is to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of marble. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at suppertime. He tells his mother how his teacher has been skipping school during the afternoons and evenings and was given a whipping. He also tells her that his collar is still around his neck, but his hat is not. Tom’s half-brother, Huck, is also present. Tom has sworn to keep himself to disguise his collar, as it is all he has about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells Tom that he has been skipping school that afternoon and evening, and Tom has been given a whipping. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival catch a small dog, abandoned and neglected.

Tom goes out of the house into the garden. He is not surprised when the new arrival comes out. Tom is eventually chased the newcomer all the way home.
