Principles And Practice Of Veterinary Technology 3e
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. He is dressed in rags, covered with mud, and has a long black welter on his back. He has been skipping school that afternoon and spent some of the evening catching and playing with a kite. The kite has been knocked off, and Tom is told he will be whipped as punishment. Tom is told to take his things and go to bed and show that his clothes are still on the clothesline. But out he goes to his old black limberjack hat, and Tom’s half-brother, Benjy’s

Tom comes home at suppertime, his hands and face blue with ink, and his clothes dirty. His father has said that he is to be whipped, but Aunt Polly has said he shall not be whipped because he has written a letter to his father. When Tom is asked what he has written, he says, "Dear Father, I have been Skipping school and have been chased and chased and chased by Mrs. Lady Lee, but I got away."

Tom goes out of the house and runs down the street till he is out of hearing. When he returns home, he finds a note on the table. It is from Aunt Polly, who says she is satisfied, and Tom has come to the conclusion that he had better start himself to dispose his clothes.
