The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s foolishness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, his face streaked with jam, to tell about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Ila happily tells how Tom has been skipped school that afternoon and went roaming the streets of St. Petersburg. While wandering about St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival of the day, Huck Finn, start a fight with the bums and eventually chase the bums all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom lies to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “true ally,” a kind of musket. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.

Tom comes home at suppertime, dirtied and hungry. After eating supper, Aunt Polly tells him that he has been skipping school that afternoon and must go back. Tom's half-brother, Sid, is still away from home, so Tom is the only one to help around.

Tom goes out of the house into the cool night air, whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom meets Huckleberry Finn and eventually escapes the ever-present snake charmer.
